BORIE.—In the city of Philadelphia, on the Sih hithms, Soviius Bories, relect of the late G. G. Borie, and nucther of lion, a. E. Borie. The funeral services were held at St. John's R. G. church, under the auspices of othe Most Berr. Archiahop Wood. Her remains were attended to the memory from the Eventory Students of that city of the 1st Instant.

"Another link that bound us to the past has gone, in the person of Mrs. Borte, and another bright spect in this dark vale of tears has fasted from uportal view in the pure and lovely character size here.

"Mrs. Borie was one of the few that still remain of those whose lives are almost contemporaneous with that of our Republic. Born in the island of San Domingo in the year 128, daughter of a rich French planter, she scenced dostined to mass a quiet life in that lovely and sechuded spot, but the tranquility of her early days was broken into by the great revolution includent to the uprising of the blacks, which occurred in that ill-fated island at the commencement of the present century. A few days sufficed to experienced mother, whose indomitable courage, however, bore hereel and children through scenes such as few have ever witnessed to the shores of America.

"Landing in Philadelphia, they made it their home. Here the young and accomplished Miss Beauveau, by her beauty and attractions, and much more by the loveliness of her character, gained the affections of Mr. John Sorie, a rich and respectable merchant then residing in our city. They were married in the year 1880, Pale event for her was the beginning of a long career of usufutness, which only terminated with her death. A substitution of the control of a large and admiring circle. Her friendship was eagerly sought from every quarter, and returned withat warmth no loss sincere. With a generosity that here no bounds, she endeared herself to the amfering poor, and thus extracted from them a veneration which followed her to the very grave. A sad day, however, arrived when her devoted hissband was taken from her. He died while she was yet in the prime of life, mourned by all who knew him. But here was not destined to be a troubled life. A few deep sorrows and its pain was over, calm and content samplying its place. Sod had blessed her with many children, whose love and devestion amplied in a measure the place of the dear one she had lost. Advancing age as withose children grown into mature years, shapp in the possession of those qualities which so eminently advanced her own character. Her daughtees confortably settled in happy homes; her sons arrived at an homored and respected manhood, aurrounded by all the enjoyments which wealth could afford. Comparative to the grave many were spaced to comfort her deciling a continuation which is engendered by the sympathy of a warm friend. In her death the Catholic Church of this city especially suffers a greatloss. Beer ready to extend her add, she contributed much toward satisfiing the progress of religion, and no new project in aid and support.
